short CV

Alex Axinte is an architect, living and working in Bucharest.

He graduated „Ion Mincu” University of Architecture and Urbanism (UAUIM), Bucharest in 2004 and in 2018 the MA in Social Research at Sheffield Methods Institute (SMI), University of Sheffield. Between 2006 and 2008 he was a teaching assistant at UAUIM in Bucharest and between 2010 and 2014 he was a member of the Territorial Council of the Romanian Order of Architects, Prahova branch.

In 2006 he co-founded studioBASAR, both as an architecture studio and a spatial practice for the production of public and community space. In 2014, studioBASAR’s project “Public Bath” was a finalist project for the European Prize of Public Space, organized by Centre of Contemporary Culture of Barcelona (CCCB). In 2017, studioBASAR was one of the „Social Design Circle” honoree, organized by the Curry Stone Design Prize, while in 2019 participated in the “Chicago Architecture Biennial” (US).

Currently, Alex is a PhD student and a general training assistant at the Sheffield School of Architecture (SSoA), University of Sheffield, working as an independent researcher from an intermediary position between applied research, participatory design and civic engagement.
