Elisabeta (Vera) Dobrescu is a Landscape Architecture PhD, with a nearly 30 years experience in the domain. Alongside, she's been running her own landscaping practice, complementing her academic work.

Having worked together with the founders of the Romanian school of landscape architecture, Vera mastered themes like restoring historic gardens, complex landscape analysis and landscape management.

She was the founder and president of the first regional organized landscape architecture institution, the precursor of the current Landscape Architect's Association of Romania.

The desire to pass on what she gained from her own experience is the reason why she's currently a lecturer at the Landscape Department of Horticultural Faculty of University of Agronomic Sciences and Veterinary Medicine of Bucharest.
