

Irina Băncescu (Constanța, 1978), Dr. Arch. is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Architecture History & Theory and Patrimony Conservation, UAUIM, Bucharest. In 2012 she finished her PhD with the subject “On waterfronts. Aspects of the Romanian seaside evolution in the communist period” at UAUIM. She published numerous studies and articles focusing, among other, on the development of port cities in the postindustrial period, urban history of coastal settlements, industrial port heritage, seaside tourism, investigating case studies from the Romanian coast. She participated in various research projects with topics such as the rehabilitation of waterfronts, the communist period’s built heritage, vernacular architecture, housing in extreme poverty situations, architectural education. Some collective projects she participated in were nominated at the Bucharest Architecture Biennial (such as publications on architectural education in 2018 and seaside urban history in 2015) and also got first prize at the urban planning section in 2010 for the research on the General Urban Plan of Berzasca County on the Danube river. She collaborated with ADN architecture office for international and national architecture competitions that resulted in awards (www.adnba.ro).