BIO

Diana Codrean is an architect and landscape architect with national and international professional experience, working at the intersection of architecture, landscape enhancing & regeneration and long-term ecological sustainability. She began her professional career in Ireland, where she was involved in complex landscape architecture projects and masterplans, urban and residential developments, gaining experience within multidisciplinary teams and large-scale design processes.

Since 2021, she has also been active in Romania, where she founded CADRO Landscape Studio, a landscape and exterior architecture design practice. She is actively involved in blue-green infrastructure projects, urban regeneration, and the revitalization of public spaces. Her professional practice focuses on sustainable design, the integration of biodiversity into the urban environment, and the development of context-sensitive solutions with a long-term positive impact on urban quality of life.
